WASHINGTON DC

A woman with short brown hair, wearing a dark blazer and a red belt, stands in a hallway. In the background, there is a white sculpture of a horse on a pedestal. The hallway has a dark carpet and a white wall with a framed picture of the horse sculpture. The lighting is warm and focused on the woman.

“Our approach to hospitality is the same as it is to family. You will always belong, always feel welcome, respected, appreciated, and special.”

DŌGON

BY KWAME ONWUACHI

Coming Soon | Spring 2024

"I firmly believe that a restaurant should have a story, because when it has a story, it has a soul."

- Kwame Onwuachi

The Story of Dōgon

The acclaimed Chef Kwame Onwuachi makes his highly anticipated return to the nation's capital with a concept inspired by Washington, D.C. surveyor Benjamin Banneker and his heritage to the West African Dogon tribe.

The restaurant will serve vibrant cuisine through an Afro-Caribbean lens and draw from Onwuachi's unique Nigerian, Jamaican, Trinidadian, and Creole background.
